Optometry Reports is a new peer-reviewed international journal devoted entirely to Optometry. The primary intent of the journal will be to rapidly publish relevant scientific information for optometrists and other professionals in visual sciences and optometry-related fields.

Optometry Reports publishes papers about original research, basic science, clinical and epidemiological studies, reviews, statistical compilations, guidelines, case reports, technical reports and letters to the Editor, that cover all aspects of optics, refraction, contact lenses, low vision, etc. and their application to the theory and practice of Optometry.